The Fifty-fifth, First Session opened January 11 in a flurry promising a bumpy ride with attacks on voting and women's health. In addition there will likely be constitutional challenges and budget maneuvers that would defeat the purpose of voter-passed Proposition 208, the tax on high income earners to support education.

We are uniquely positioned to weigh in on these and other legislative initiatives that correlate with AAUW public policy positions. Arizona is the only state to have a Request to Speak (RTS) opportunity whereby after registering, citizens may support or oppose any bill that is appearing before a legislative committee in the upcoming week.

Join the AAUW Arizona Legislative Day February 9, meet our lobbyist Jodi Liggett, and powerful legislators Senator Peshlakai, and Representatives Salman and Teran. Join our team of members who are determined to be heard and make a difference this session.
